As of January 1, 2005 all Home Inspectors working in New York State will need to be licensed. The Grandfathering the State allowed was very weak and basically all inspectors currently working as Home Inspectors will be Grandfathered. Many even were allowed to take an open book, on-line test that wasn't even proctored to qualify. Believe it or not some did not have to take a test at all.

We at HomePro Inspections have completed over 15,000 Home Inspections and have been exclusively in the Home Inspection business for over 19 years.

Don't trust your reputation on the fact that an individual is licensed, instead look for the most experienced company and refer them.

At HomePro Inspections we believe "Experience Is Everything"

I am including a copy of our licenses for your file along with our company profile.

Respectively Yours,

M. Douglas Myers President
